Arab Guerrillas, Hostages May Be Flown to U.S.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Middle East News Agency said today the Sudanese government has agreed to provide a plane to fly Arab guerrillas and their hostages to the United States from Khartoum.

The Egyptian agency said in its dispatch from Khartoum that the guerrillas, holding the U.S. ambassador and four other diplomats, also demanded that two members of Sudan's Cabinet go with them on the flight to the United States. This was refused, the agency reported.

The dispatch was filed about an hour after the deadline set by the guerrillas, members of the Palestinian Black September organization, for the execution of their hostages if their demands were not met.

There was no immediate explanation why the guerrillas wanted to come to the United States. After seizing the hostages

Thursday during a reception at the Saudi Arabian Embassy in Khartoum, the guerrillas demanded the release of dozens of colleagues held in Jordan and freedom for Sirhan B. Sirhan, convicted assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in 1968 now serving a life term in California. But they were reported to have eased these demands.

The Egyptian dispatch said the guerrillas wanted Foreign Minister Mansour Khaled and Information Minister Omar Haj Nousa of Sudan to go along on the flight to the United States but the government "totally rejected" this.

Two Americans are among the hostages: Ambassador Cleo A. Noel Jr. and the U.S. charge d'affaires, Curtis G. Moore. The reception was in Moore's honor because of his imminent departure for home.

The others held are Adley el Nasser of Jordan, Guy Eid of Belgium, both charges d'affaires, and the Saudi ambassador.

The hostages had been held for 20 hours at the time of the Middle East News Agency report.

The French Embassy in Khartoum informed Eid's brother, George, in Brussels that the terrorists had put back their deadline to 7 p.m., noon EST, and that it expected the situation would be "cleared up" by early evening in Khartoum.

The Egyptian dispatch did not make clear whether Sudan's refusal to allow its Cabinet ministers to go on the plane had canceled the deal or whether the guerrillas still would go ahead with the plan.

Sudan's radio reported that a senior U.S. State Department official would arrive in Khartoum at midnight. He was not identified.

The U.S. emissary is empowered by his government to conduct "whatever negotiations are necessary with the guerrillas," the radio said.

The guerrillas were notified of his coming, the broadcast added.

American sources said Ambassador Noel was shot in the ankle during the takeover and wounded superficially, and the Belgian had a bullet wound in the leg. They said doctors were allowed to attend them and a wounded night watchman.

Two Sudanese government representatives were allowed into the embassy this morning to negotiate with the guerrillas and reported all five hostages "in good health." They said, however, that the guerrillas had planted explosives in several parts of the embassy.

The guerrillas at first demanded the release of:

—Sirhan Sirhan, the Jordanian immigrant to the United States serving a life term in California for assassinating Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

—Palestinian leader Abu Daoud and 16 colleagues held in Jordan. Abu Daoud is a code name for a member of the high command of Al Fatah, the largest Palestinian organization.

—Col. Rafel Hindawi, accused of masterminding a plot against King Hussein of Jordan last year, and a Palestinian named Mahmoud al Khalil.

—All military and women prisoners in Jordan.

—All Palestinian women held in Israeli prisons.

—Members of the Baader-Meinhof Gang of anarchists in West Germany.

Today, however, the guerrillas were said to be reducing their demands sharply. Some sources reported they were centering on the release of Daoud and safe conduct for themselves to Algeria or Libya, probably with the hostages.

Wounded Knee Violence Feared

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Militant Indians who seized the community of Wounded Knee freed 11 hostages unharmed Thursday, though 10 of the hostages chose to stay. One Indian leader predicted more violence.

"I believe it will enter into violence—that the U.S. will come in here," said Indian leader Russell Means. "It took 15 years for Vietnam. This is only the beginning for the American Indians."

Indian leaders have said they are willing to fight and die in the spirit of Wounded Knee to press their demands for an end to what they describe as mistreatment of Indians.

South Dakota's two senators—George S. McGovern and James Abourezk—negotiated through the night and into the morning today in a "DMZ" between barricades set up by federal marshals and the Indians.

Although both senators said they had made no concessions of consequence, Abourezk said Sen. J. William Fulbright had committed himself to launch a hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which he heads into the question of treaties between the U.S. and the Indian nations.

More than 200 Indians, mostly members of the American Indian Movement (AIM), seized this historic hamlet—scene of the last clash between American Indians and the U.S. Cavalry in 1890—Tuesday night. They took 11 hostages ranging from age 12 to 80. The Indians told the hostages Thursday they were free to go.

One of the hostages—a Roman Catholic priest—emerged in midafternoon and said the rest preferred to stay where they were because Wounded Knee was their home. The heavily armed Indians dug fox holes in the hill overlooking the Wounded Knee massacre site where 200 to 300 Sioux died 82 years ago. The white steeple of a tiny church peeks out from atop the bunker-studded hill.

The Indians set up a roadblock at one point. Blue-suited U.S. marshals toting automatic shotguns set up a roadblock at another. McGovern and Abourezk dubbed the area in between as the "DMZ" and agreed to meet the Indian leaders there. The negotiations moved inside Thursday night when temperatures dropped into the 30s.

McGovern said he had turned down AIM's request for further meetings after sunup today because he did not feel that he and Abourezk alone should deal with such matters. He called for a meeting Saturday of the leaders of all the Indian tribes in South Dakota.

Nevertheless, McGovern said, tension appeared to be easing late Thursday night until, just at the end of the meeting, AIM leaders received word by telephone from Pine Ridge that the home of Aaron DeSerca, an AIM leader, had been severely damaged by a fire bomb and his wife had been taken to the hospital with severe burns.

Abourezk said the grievances they discussed with the Indians included "corruption both here and on other reservations and the problem with the tribal chairman."

This led some observers to theorize that internal Indian politics, involving Ogala tribal chairman Dick Wilson, may also have played a part in the uprising at Wounded Knee.

Some reporters managed to slip past federal roadblocks and enter Wounded Knee. Newsweek reported that several of those who had been held hostage indicated that they were as frightened by the federal marshals and FBI agents ringing the settlement as they were by the Indians.

Confusion Again Over POW Release

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. delegation announced today two meetings today by the four-party Joint Military Commission. Spokesmen for both sides reported no progress in resolving the dispute.

Another meeting is scheduled for Saturday, the U.S. spokesman said. Earlier, the Viet Cong delegation had announced to newsmen that it would release the 34 persons captured in South Vietnam on Sunday at Hanoi's Gia Lam airport at the same time North Vietnam released its 108 prisoners.

Dutchess Parents Hopeful

MILLERTON

Mr. and Mrs. William Miller of the Northern Dutchess hamlet of Millerton are prepared for the best to happen on Saturday. Their son, Army CWO Roger A. Miller, a prisoner of war in South Vietnam may be released.

Miller told The Freeman today that he received a telephone call from the government during the morning. He was told that his son is scheduled to be released on Saturday and that he would receive further calls with more information.

But Miller isn't letting his hopes reach a pinnacle quite yet. Since receiving the telephone call he has seen news reports that 30 prisoners will be held back. "I don't know if Roger is among them," he said.

Roger A. Miller was shot down over South Vietnam in April of 1970, a month after arriving in the war zone. He had been listed as missing in action until early this year when the North Vietnamese released a list of POW's. It wasn't until then that his parents knew he was alive.

Earlier today, Bui Tin, the chief spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation, said the transfer of POWs in Hanoi would begin Sunday at 11 a.m., Saigon time, or 10 p.m. EST Saturday.

The Communist delegations in Saigon delivered to U.S. representatives the names of those to be freed. The names were flashed to Washington for notification of the families. Some had waited nearly seven years.

Site for New City High School Disclosed

By JON POWERS

ZENA The Board of Education is negotiating with Strelene Realty Corp., owners of Hudson Cement, for a 100-acre parcel of land off Delaware Avenue as the site for a new 1,600-student high school for the Kingston Consolidated School District.

Thomas Reynolds, chairman of the Board of Education's Building Committee, made the announcement at Thursday's monthly meeting.

"We're in the process of negotiating a price," said Reynolds. He declined to estimate what the eventual purchase price will be.

The site is a heavily wooded area that runs roughly from Fourth Avenue to the foot of Delaware Avenue opposite Highbrook Park in the city's Ninth Ward.

Reynolds said that some landscaping and fill work would have to be completed before will appropriate funds for the construction of the new building could begin. Preliminary layout plans, necessitated by the topography of the land, call for the building itself to be situated on one level, and athletic field on a lower level and additional recreational and athletic facilities on a third tier.

Reynolds said Thursday that the school board considered between 18 and 20 possible sites for the new building; 10-12 of those sites were examined in "quite extensive detail."

When a price is finally negotiated with Strelene Realty, said Reynolds, the school board awarded for the construction work. Architectural and design work for the new building has already begun.

The need for a new high school facility was necessitated by the serious overcrowding conditions at the existing high school on Broadway. When the new school is completed — the tentative timetable calls for construction to begin this year with occupancy in September, 1976 — the old building will be extensively renovated.

Because of the expected rapid growth of the school district — the 1976 high school enrollment is projected at 3,000 — the school board anticipates that double sessions will begin in September, 1975. The double sessions will continue when the new school is opened, and will last until the old building is renovated. If its tentative

Delegates Pleased

PARIS (UPI) — Delegates to a Paris conference called to draw up an agreement guaranteeing the peace in Vietnam turned from a brief crisis that threatened to scuttle the cease-fire to sign a nine-point accord today.

The major powers described the agreement as "good" to "rather good."

Participants to the 13-party conference initialled the document Thursday and scheduled a formal signing ceremony today in the Kleber Avenue conference hall where the Vietnam peace pact was signed Jan. 27.

Fighting Slackens Along War Fronts

SAIGON (UPI) — Fighting an assault followed by a heavy mortar barrage. Field commanders sent trucks to pick up the retreating troops but military sources said most of them were in such a state of shock that they were driven to brigade headquarters in Phnom Penh instead of returning to the battlefield.

The highway between Siem Reap and Phnom Penh was clogged Thursday with troops fleeing in commandeered motorcycle taxis, field reports said. One soldier said his unit fled after their commander was killed by Khmer Rouge gunfire.

In Honolulu, U.S. officials said more U.S. air strikes Thursday hit Communist targets and supply routes in Cambodia, but they did not go into detail except to say the raids took place at the request of the Cambodian government.

In Laos, the level of fighting remained low again on the eighth day after the official cease-fire there and the government of Premier Souvanna Phouma listed 16 cease-fire violations in the 24 hours ending at 10 a.m. Thursday.

The troops said thousands of Cambodian rebels led by North Vietnamese carried out an attack against government positions south of the town of Siem Reap. At least 60 government troops were reported wounded there with hundreds missing in the with hundreds missing in the with hundreds missing in the

"We initialled a good accord," said Nguyen Duy Trinh, North Vietnam's foreign minister.

"Things are good, things are good," said Secretary of State William P. Rogers. "We are very pleased about the way this conference has gone."

"It's not bad," said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. "It's rather good. I am generally optimistic."

Basically, the signers of the agreement pledged they would uphold the peace in Vietnam and elsewhere in Southeast Asia and, in the event of more hostilities, would return to a conference table to settle them rather than using force.

The only reservations about the accord came from South Vietnam and Canada even though they approved the agreement.

"This final act achieved a certain number of the objectives..." said Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam of South Vietnam. "Nevertheless, this document is not entirely satisfactory to our delegation."

"An effort has undoubtedly been made to meet our requirements, but does it go far enough and will it work?" asked External Affairs Minister Mitchell W. Sharp of Canada.

The Thursday agreement came after Rogers ended a two-day boycott of the talks, caused by a wrangle over the release of U.S. war prisoners that threatened to torpedo the conference and the cease-fire it was set up to guarantee.

Rogers was ordered by President Nixon to carry out no other business until Hanoi ended its delay in the release of POWs. He rejoined the conference after North Vietnam announced in Saigon that 136 more American POWs and six captives from other nations would go free in Hanoi this weekend.

Earlier, Sharp proposed the reporting of Vietnam cease-fire violations to go to an international policing body empowered to take action in cases of serious offenses, preferably the United Nations.

ESCORTING GOLDA — President Nixon escorts Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir into the White House. Mrs. Meir, who conferred with the Chief Executive earlier on the Middle East situation, was guest of honor at dinner. (UPI Telephoto)

Nixon Assures Golda of Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir winds up her Washington visit today, apparently having received promises of most of the military and economic aid she sought.

Mrs. Meir came here with a long shopping list for military hardware and economic aid. According to Israeli sources, she appeared to have obtained most of it.

"She could not be happier," said one source close to her. Neither Mrs. Meir nor the administration would divulge details.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters after a 95-minute meeting between President Nixon and Mrs. Meir: "The President assured Mrs. Meir of continuing U.S. support. As you know, we provide Israel with economic and military assistance. This will continue."

Administration sources said privately that Mrs. Meir asked for $300 million in military credits to buy 30 F4 Phantom fighter-bombers, 30 A4 Skyhawk tactical bombers, an unspecified number of Cobra helicopter gunships, laser-guided "smart" bombs and Lance surface-to-surface ballistic missiles.

They said she also asked for $215 million in non-military grants and credits.

In a National Press Club speech Thursday Mrs. Meir spelled out some concessions Israel is prepared to make to obtain Middle East peace. These were:

—A negotiated border between Israel and Syria on the Golan Heights. But she said Israel could never entirely retreat from the heights, from which Israeli homes and agricultural settlements in the valley below have been shelled.

—She appeared to offer Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai Desert in return for Egyptian agreement to continued Israeli occupation of Sarm el Sheikh, the former Egyptian fortress at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba overlooking the narrow Strait of Tiran.

—She said Israel would be willing "to pull back a bit" from the Suez Canal to permit Egypt to reopen it, but that a final border in that area would have to be negotiated in a peace treaty.

Lynch Party Loses

DUBLIN (UPI) — A coalition of opponents toppled Prime Minister Jack Lynch and his Fianna Fail party from power today after 16 years of uninterrupted rule in the closest election in Irish history.

Fianna Fail gained only 64 of the 144 seats in the Dail (parliament) and with 13 results left outstanding, the combined opposition of the Fine Gael and Labor parties held 65 seats.

Lynch conceded defeat. "I have lived with victory and defeat all my life," he said. "I accept defeat when it comes."

The counting of the rest of the votes cast Wednesday was adjourned until later today. But political experts and computer forecasts said Fianna Fail could hope to win only five of the 13 outstanding seats, giving it a final total of 69 to the opposition's total of 73.

At the end of the first day's results, the Fine Gael held 48 seats, Labor 17 and independents two.

The man most likely to succeed Lynch was Liam Cosgrave, the 53-year-old son of independent Ireland's first prime minister.

"I am most anxious to consult with Mr. Cosgrave," Lynch said. "It is important that he should know everything about the situation."

Cosgrave, a former cabinet minister in two earlier ruling coalitions, told cheering supporters, "The people have given us their confidence. We will not let them down."

As Lynch before him, Cosgrave turned his attention to Northern Ireland, where violence between Protestants and Roman Catholics has raged the past 3½ years.

"We will do everything in our power to bring about a just and lasting peace to the north," he said.

Lynch himself scored a personal triumph in his Cork constituency, where he topped the poll with 12,427 votes, an increase of 1,200 votes over his 1969 total.

The Clarence Daniels came home to a '73 Ford LTD Brougham because behind the beautiful looking outside, is a beautiful driving inside.

Can a city family of four find happiness on the highway in a two-door car?

The Clarence Daniels of Newark did. Their 1973 LTD Brougham is a whole lot of car, inside and out, front and back, on crowded city streets and on the open road. And it looks it.

"My biggest problem," says Mr. Daniels, "is getting my friends to believe it's a Ford. 'Why'd you go and get a big Lincoln or Thunderbird?' they ask me. Until they get up close."

It's the kind of a problem a car owner doesn't mind having. Especially when the car handles like a quiet dream in city traffic as well as on the highway. And offers real stretch-out legroom for driver and passengers.

As the Daniels' daughter, Carol, a teacher and six feet of strong-minded woman, puts it: "A lot of big cars are awkward, but the Brougham handles very well. And I just kind of dig the luxury."

Motor Trend Magazine selected the 1973 Ford LTD Brougham as their Full-Size Sedan of the Year. So did the Clarence Daniels. Check it out at your local dealer. Come on home.

Head Start Program...$141,000 Grant

KINGSTON — The Ulster County Head Start Program for pre-school children has again been funded in the amount of $141,000, it was jointly announced today by Congressmen Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-5th District), Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th District) and Howard W. Robison (R-27th District).

The $141,000, according to Jeff Hanna, acting executive director of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, which administers the program, is the same amount as received in 1972. Sixty children will be served by the program.

Fish said that there is no move in Congress (or in the Administration, apparently) to "scuttle" the Head Start Program, although Fish added "Ulster County Community Action, an arm of the Office of Economic Opportunity... is being phased out," the grant for Head Start came from the Department of Health Education and Welfare.

Head Start was one of the first OEO programs in Ulster County, beginning in 1967 with some 30 children. It is designed primarily to help economically deprived pre-school children whose mothers work during the day. Youngsters are offered a daily program of activities designed to increase their language skills and perception of the environment. In addition to balanced meal and between meal snacks, the program offers outdoor games and activities, field trips to local sites of interest and indoor games of creative activities. The program also includes medical, dental, social and psychological services for the children.

As to the future of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, Hanna says he "just doesn't know."

"We're a community action program funded by OEO," Hanna said. "If our OEO funds cease to exist, we have to look for other places for funding."

"As long as we exist, we are the administrative component for Head Start," Hanna added indicating that UCCAC will be around for at least another year to administer Head Start.

Hanna said that UCCAC is "hoping for something through the special revenue sharing program." Under the general revenue sharing program approved by Congress last year, some $30 billion is being channeled back to municipalities across the nation to use at their discretion.

Special revenue sharing, still in the formative stages, would also send money directly to the municipalities but for specific programs, such as urban renewal, and Hanna hopes, Community Action.

Mayor Escapes Indians in Hail of Bullets

GALLUP, N.M. (UPI) — Mayor Emmett Garcia crashed through a glass window in a blaze of bullets to escape from two militant Indians who kidnapped him Thursday.

Then police opened fire on the sporting goods store where the two Indians, both 20, had holed up. One surrendered and the other was found inside, shot to death. Police said they think he committed suicide.

Garcia was hospitalized in good condition. His abductors had shot him once in the side as he escaped and he suffered cuts from broken glass when he dived through the window.

The dead Indian, Larry Casuse, was a former president of the Kiva Indian Club at the University of New Mexico. District Attorney Ed Depauli said Casuse was bitterly opposed to the recent appointment of Garcia as a University of New Mexico regent.

The club charged Garcia exploited Indians.

The other Indian, Robert Nakaidinae, Fort Defiance, Ariz., was charged with kidnapping, attempted murder, and lesser offenses.

Depauli said the two Indians walked into the mayor's office and then some shots were fired, but no one was hit. He said they handcuffed Garcia and disarmed Police Chief Manuel Gonzalez Jr.

"They walked the mayor down, handcuffed, to Sterns Sporting Goods Store about a block and a half away," Depauli said. Once inside, "the mayor saw a chance to escape and dived through a glass window.

"They took a shot at him and then the firing started between them and police," he said.

The Indians were armed with a pistol and a shotgun and had a large amount of ammunition, police said.

Coroner Charles Kettel said Casuse was killed by a bullet in the face "fired at close range," because there were powder burns on the wound.

The coroner said he was withholding a ruling in the death until after an autopsy, but Depauli said it was the general opinion of policemen at the scene that Casuse killed himself.

School Bus Trial... Defense Witness

NEW CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — The first defense witness in the trial of the driver of a school bus that collided with a train, killing five students and injuring 44 others, said Thursday the driver was involved in three minor vehicle accidents before the tragedy occurred.

Rommel Karilaid, a dispatcher for the Rockland Bus Lines, testified under cross-examination that Joseph Larkin had been involved in two minor bus accidents and an accident in a passenger car, before the train accident, March 24, 1972.

Karilaid's testimony came as the prosecution rested after calling 27 witnesses, including survivors of the crash.

Larkin, a moonlighting New York City fireman, is accused of criminal negligence in the five deaths in the accident at the rail crossing in Congers. Forty-four Nyack High School students were hospitalized after the tragedy.

Pension Reductions for Vets... Battle Brewing

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Nixon administration has its way, many of the nation's veterans will experience sharp reductions in pension benefits and wide-ranging cutbacks in education and medical programs.

But key members of Congress are lining up with the politically weighty veterans' organizations to fight it. The brewing battle threatens the government career of Donald E. Johnson, the Iowa Republican who runs the Veterans Administration.

A White House source says that while Johnson has fallen into some disfavor, he knows of no decision to fire him. But another source says "...he's going to go."

In the administration's 1974 plans for veterans' programs, these are cuts are most criticized by Democrats and some Republicans on the House and Senate Veterans Affairs committees and by the veterans' organizations.

—An $81-million reduction in funds for VA hospital construction.

—No budget money for a new program to encourage colleges to recruit veterans, tutor and counsel them. Congress appropriated $25 million when it passed the bill last year, and the National Association of Collegiate Veterans, with 25,000 members, filed suit in U.S. District Court Thursday in an effort to force the administration to finance the program.)

—A $5.8-million reduction in medical-research funds, primarily covering experiments to find more efficient artificial limbs.

—A $6.6-million saving in VA payroll costs and elimination of 1,400 agency jobs. Administration critics fear the item means that the VA intends to merge 57 regional offices into 10, making it harder for a veteran to slash red tape and get benefits due him.

The VA says the work of the regional offices is under study, but "we would not in any way change the number" of them.

The administration is moving on the legislative front to accomplish reductions in programs it can't cut otherwise.

The VA budget predicts savings of $223 million if Congress approves the administration proposal to change the way pension benefits are computed.

Under present law, the monthly disability pension for a veteran with only his wife as a dependent ranges from $33 to $140. To qualify for the minimum, the veteran must earn no more than $300 a year. But his wife's income isn't counted.

The administration wants to count the wife's income, and if the count hits more than $3,800 a year, the pension would be withdrawn.

WASHINGTON — The FBI is checking our toll calls and pulling out all stops to find out how we get secret government reports on drug smuggling around the world. Despite the FBI efforts, here is another installment from a classified document on the "Afghan connection." For centuries, the great nations have slumbered as Persians, Mongols, Turks and Macedonians invaded the mountainous land of Afghanistan. But now, an incursion of Corsicans has awakened the world to the Afghans' poppy-covered hillside.

The Corsican Mafia has been surveying the blossoming fields with practiced eyes and conferring on thick carpets with the opium moguls of Kabul, the Afghan capital.

While the heaviest publicity was centered on the drug traffic in Turkey, Southeast Asia and Mexico, the underworld quietly clinched its contacts in Kabul and set up its drug routes to Europe and the United States.

Secret Reports
Now, a dribble of secret reports is beginning to reach U.S. officials on the "Afghan connection." We have obtained a copy of one of these documents so highly classified that each one was numbered before being distributed to federal executives.

"Afghan enforcement agencies are incapable of the most elementary of police functions because of the lack of funds and facilities, and inadequate organization and management," states the report. "Also, close family and tribal ties exist between officials at every level of government and inhabitants of the tribal regions."

"Opium poppies are grown primarily in tribal areas of eastern Afghanistan, where Government control is limited. Because it is dangerous even for Afghans to enter this area uninvited, there are no reliable statistics on opium . . . traffic in Afghanistan."

Major Source
But there is no question about the threat to the United States.

"With the ban on poppy cultivation in Turkey after the 1971-72 season, U.S. officials are concerned that Afghanistan could fast become a major source of opium and opium derivatives bound for the U.S. market," states the secret report.

Other confidential sources report that some Afghan peasants are so poor that they chew opium gum to ease hunger pains.

And the government is so hard up for cash that it recently sold some 30 tons of opium which had been seized and stored for several years in a warehouse. The opium was purchased for legitimate medical uses by a U.S. pharmaceutical firm. But the firm found to its dismay that the government opium had been diluted with sugar and foreign matter.

Bad as the situation is, there is some hope. The new Afghan premier, Mohammad Musa Shafiq has promised to crack down and two U.S. narcotics agents are working with Shafiq's police.

A United Nations team went to Afghanistan last fall and has prepared a confidential draft report, to be released in a few weeks, offering some solutions. Finally, Afghan, Iranian and U.S. narcotics agents recently grabbed 12.7 tons of opium bound from Afghanistan to Iran in a huge truck.

Footnote: While the antinarcotics fight in Afghanistan is not hopeless, the situation is grim in another mountainous Asian kingdom, Nepal. There, says our embassy in confidential reports, "virtually every known drug of abuse is easily available . . . at minimal cost." Neither India nor Nepal "are willing or able to police their common border," say our diplomats in Nepal. And "the propensity to graft and corruption" in Nepal makes any effective antinarcotics work nearly impossible.

Washington Whirl
Shell Game — American officers returning from Southeast Asia have been using military air freight privileges to ship home everything but the beaches of Vietnam. Now we have found a "Capt. Lehmann" who is shipping home, believe it or not, the beaches of Vietnam. The acquisitive captain sent 60 pounds of sea shells back through Los Angeles aboard Continental Airlines on a "nonrevenue" basis, his cargo manifest shows.

Alphabet Lesson — Freshman Sen. Jim Abourezk, D-S.C. got a sudden insight into the workings of the Senate when it voted on the nomination of Elliot Richardson as the new defense secretary. Abourezk had been led to believe by some of his colleagues that they would vote against Richardson. As the first senator alphabetically, Abourezk duly recorded his own opposition, then listened in horror as his "allies" deserted him. Although he pleaded with them to make good on their cloakroom bravado, none joined him. Some even urged him to switch his vote before the roll call ended in order to make Richardson's confirmation unanimous. But Abourezk stuck to his guns and the final vote was 77-0 Abourezk.

Snake Oil Sermon — The National Council of Churches takes a skeptical view of television industry promises to tone down overblown advertising of over-the-counter drugs. In a new report, the council complains that "the existence of advertising codes without enforcement procedures gives the consumer a false assurance that drug advertisements are true." The council claims the pharmaceutical ads "encourage the misuse and abuse of drugs." Says its report: "Drug advertising presents a 'pain, pill pleasure' model" that creates an atmosphere where people feel the nostrums can solve all their problems. The council's action comes as House crime chairman Claude Pepper, D-Fla., is calling for a total ban on daytime TV advertising of pills because of the ads' persuasive effect on children.

'One Man, One Vote' Varies

The Supreme Court has made a distinction in applying the 1-man, 1-vote principle between state legislative districts and congressional ones. In a 5 to 3 decision on a Virginia legislative district plan, it allowed a variance of 16.4 per cent of the population when it conforms to the boundaries of political subdivisions.

Previously, the court had invalidated a Missouri Congressional reapportionment plan with a minimum deviation of 5.9 per cent and upheld a New York case involving a county board of supervisors with a district deviation of 11.9 per cent.

As a result, the possibility was raised that the Supreme Court would also revive legislative reapportionment plans in a half dozen states that had been struck down by lower federal courts for population variations of less than 15 per cent.

Justice William H. Rehnquist, for the majority, held that "Neither courts nor legislatures are furnished any specialized calipers, which enable them to extract from the general language of the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment the mathematical formula which establishes which ranges of percentage of deviation are permissible and which are not. Virginia has not sacrificed substantial equality to justifiable deviations."

Besides Rehnquist, the majority included Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, and Associate Justices Potter Stewart, Byron R. White and Harry A. Blackmun. Associate Justice Lewis F. Powell, a Virginian, did not participate in the decision.

However, Justice William J. Brennan, for the minority, argued that it was not really important for individual counties and towns to be wholly within a single district because there were relatively few issues before the legislature in which a locality needed special representation. Brennan was joined by Justices William O. Douglas and Thurgood Marshall.

The decision waters down the principle of 1-man, 1-vote, first set out in 1964, but it does give states more leeway in making their own legislative districts.

Regulating Adoptions

At a time when "the pill" and other contraceptive measures thwart the development of life in the womb, and abortion is legalized, children are so desired by thousands of childless couples that they will pay as much as $25,000 for one baby via the "gray" or the "black" market.

The regular and approved way to an adoption is through a public or private agency, where extensive investigation takes place, and frequently religious qualifications are observed, but this method seems too slow and rigid for many.

In the gray market, lawyers often work on their own, to arrange adoptions at whatever fee the traffic will bear. The system is leading to serious abuses of overcharging and sketchy investigation of homes both before and after adoption. The fees are so tempting that unscrupulous practitioners practically have a dragnet out on campuses, maternity homes, houses of prostitution. They may peddle babies with venereal disease, a drug habit or other ills. Or well babies are given over to couples who may not be so well mentally or emotionally.

The black market is even worse. Babies are sold for a car, or a ring, or a luxury apartment.

Long before now, this total situation should have been ironed out. It is a necessity at this current time, for the sake of both adoptive children and prospective parents. The aching needs of both must be considered, but wrong adoptions should not be tolerated.

TELL IT ALL—Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr., New Jersey Democrat, has introduced legislation to compel food manufacturers and distributors to list all ingredients on labels of their products. It is one more benefit for the consumer, stemming from the "Truth in Food Labelling" Act.

SEAT BELTS ON BUSES — It was bound to come. Greater New York is moving to get seat belts installed in school buses and in regular city buses. The demand for seat belts on buses to anywhere is sure to follow. And—worse need—where breathes the taxider who's sides are not bruised?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Despite rising hostility in Congress to U.S. aid for reconstruction of North Vietnam, President Nixon is moving toward a most unpopular decision: asking Congress for direct U.S. aid money, not funneled through the World Bank or any other multilateral source. That bold but still tentative decision shows just how confident Mr. Nixon is that, when the issue is sharply drawn, enough liberals — maybe even Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, the defeated 1972 Democratic presidential nominee — will have to go along.

Hard-line anti-foreign aid conservatives, such as Senate Democratic whip Robert Byrd of West Virginia, seem unalterably opposed to aiding Hanoi in any shape or form. Some liberals, such as Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, are just as unalterably opposed unless the aid is multilateral. But the President is hoping that McGovern and other super-doves, now opposed to direct aid, ultimately will support it rather than risk collapse of the fragile peace settlement.

The strong inclination of State Department and White House officials to push direct aid is based on long-range political factors, which can be summed up in this question:

Why should the U.S. spend up to $1.5 billion over five years to help reconstruct Hanoi and other war-damaged parts of North Vietnam without reaping political and economic benefits?

If all aid were funneled through the Asian Bank or some new international consortium, the U.S. hand would be hidden. But with most U.S. aid bearing a prominent Made-in-America sign, Washington could gradually build real political influence in Hanoi.

That is surely also the explanation for Hanoi's demand, which first publicly surfaced this week, that American aid be "direct." Hanoi, too, looks on aid not just as bricks and mortar and machinery, but as opening up a political option in Washington for possible future use.

Moreover, Rep. Otto Passman of Louisiana, chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee handling Hanoi aid, has already issued this blunt warning to the administration: under no conditions will multilateral aid be acceptable.

Passman told us he would much prefer 40-year, no-interest loans for Hanoi. But he did not rule out direct grants, if no third countries were involved.

In the long run, the administration believes, the hard-boiled advantages of direct aid in international politics will be easier to sell in Capitol Hill and in the nation. But for the short run, it deepens Mr. Nixon's problems and gives his liberal opponents a rationale for hedging on previous promises of aid. McGovern is a conspicuous example.

Several times during the presidential campaign, McGovern strongly supported postwar reconstruction aid. Asked early in 1972 whether he endorsed former President Johnson's proposal for $1 billion in postwar aid, McGovern replied: "Absolutely, absolutely." Later, he said the U.S. should treat North Vietnam just as it did Japan and Germany after World War II.

Yet, McGovern today hedges on aid for North Vietnam. He recently said he would vote for aid money only if it was not direct. Other liberals, angry at the President's impoundment of social-welfare funds and his budget ceiling, are similarly threatening to block any direct aid request by Mr. Nixon.

The screams from congressional liberals that greeted the first reports of U.S. aid for Hanoi surprised the White House, deeply worrying top officials who know that Hanoi feels it was given a hard commitment in Paris for direct reconstruction aid. Every indication that Congress might actually refuse to vote what Hanoi regards as its due increases this official worry.

"If Hanoi thinks we are playing a shell game with them on reconstruction aid," one official told us, "all bets for a peaceful settlement are off." In short, once the Hanoi politburo suspects Mr. Nixon cannot or will not deliver on that key element in the agreement ending the war, the Communists might wreck the whole agreement.

As the battle deepens and Mr. Nixon moves frontally toward direct aid, that fact alone may be his trump card. Surely, McGovern and the other liberals who screamed longest and loudest for an end of the war would not risk seeing the war-end agreement undermined because of their own refusal to honor a commitment for direct aid to North Vietnam.

Recollections at the 19th Hole

Only a nut would be interested in golf records. I am a nut. Golf, of course, is not a game. It's outdoor penance. I recommend it most heartily for relaxed persons who are trying to develop hypertension. And yet it has its code of ethics. A man in Florida who wanted to kill a loan shark had the decency not to shoot him until he had putted out.

The highest golf course in the world — unless you are playing Jackie Gleason head to head — is the Tuctu Golf Club in Morococha, Peru. It is 14,335 feet above sea level. Bring your own oxygen mask.

The lowest golf course — a band on a dune since the clubhouse burned down — was the Sodoma and Gomorrah Golfing Society on the shores of the Dead Sea. It was 1,250 feet below sea level. Any ball hit into the River Jordan was out of bounds and also disrespectful.

The longest hole in the world is the 17th at Black Mountain Golf Club in North Carolina. It is 745 yards, a par 6. If I was on my game, I could make that one from tee to green in 9 strokes. Add 3 putts and a gimme and I'm home.

The biggest trap, not counting Carol Burnett, is on the 7th at the Pine Valley Course in New Jersey. It is called Hell's Half Acre and looks like a sand mine.

The lowest score on a regulation course is 58, carded by Harry Weetman of the British Ryder Cup team. He sank everything (and everybody) on the Craham Hurst Course at Croydon on January 30, 1956. He had more birds than a well kept aviary.

The highest score was recorded by me on the Diplomat 11th, 496 yards. I got a 71, counting 37 balls dropped into two lakes. On one round at the King's Inn Course, Grand Bahama Island, I lost 36 balls, mainly because the designer owned a string of bowling alleys.

This, of course, is no record. Milton Goldstand popped two pills into a lake and tossed a gross of balls in after them. Overhand.

Sam Snead went around the White Sulphur Springs course in 59, which is close to his age. Mike Souchak, Ted Kroll and Tommy Bolt carded 60 in PGA tournament play. Men can't believe that women can play golf, but Mickey Wright went around the Hogan Park Course (6,286 yards) at Midland, Texas, in 62-30 strokes out, 32 coming in.

In four rounds of golf, I don't know of anyone who has beat Mike Souchak in the Texas Open of 1955. He had successive rounds of 60, 68, 64 and 65 for a total of 257. His low score for 9 holes was 27.

Tournament play is what most of us watch on TV. The world record for winning the most tournaments in one year belongs to Byron Nelson. He entered 31 big ones in 1945. He won 19 of them, 11 in a row. He placed high enough to win money in 113 successive tournaments.

Jack Nicklaus is the longest consistent hitter, but he doesn't hold the record. George Bayer, playing in a Las Vegas tournament in 1957, hit a ball 420 yards. It was measured because it hit a spectator who had a good lawyer. In Tucson, Bayer also drove off the green with his tee shot on a par four 426-yard hole. Craig Wood hit one 430 yards at St. Andrews with a strong following wind on hard baked ground.

Did you know that the average golf ball leaves your driver at 87 miles per hour? I thought not. In three seconds of flight, the speed falls to 46 m.p.h. The U.S. Open has been played for 80 years. Ben Hogan holds the record for a 276 at the Riviera Country Club in Los Angeles. That's an average of 69 per round.

The most golf ever played in one day was achieved by a mental giant named Stanley Gard at the North Brighton Golf Club in Australia. He played 14 complete rounds and 4 holes. His highest round was 92; his lowest 78.

A hole in one is every golfer's prayer. The greatest number ever made in a lifetime is 35, achieved by Art Wall, Jr. However, did you know that almost a dozen golfers have dropped two successive holes-in-one? Norman Manley, of the Del Valle Country Club in Saugus, California, did the impossible. He made two successive holes in one on par 4 holes on September 2, 1964. And hasn't been heard from since.

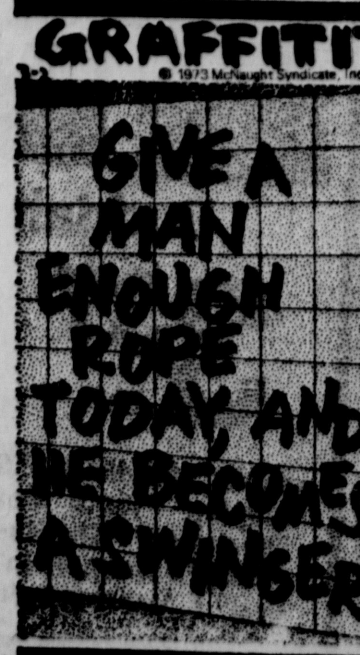

The youngest golfer every to make a hole in one was Joe Dobson at the Meadowlark Municipal Course at Enid, Oklahoma. He hit an iron on the 4th, 155 yards, and watched it curl up to the hole and fall in. He felt no surprise. He was 6 years and 3 months of age.

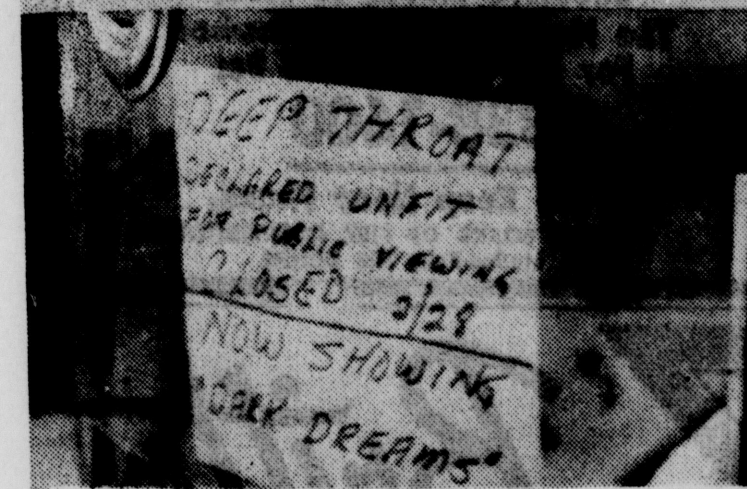

Wait a minute until I slit my wrists. Now, what time tomorrow? . . .

BERRY'S WORLD

"Why didn't Hansel and Gretel leave a trail in the forest with some non-biodegradable substance?"

MARQUEE'S VIEW — The marquee of the World Theater here gives the theater operator's point of view after Criminal Court Judge Joel L. Tyler ruled in New York that "Deep Throat," a movie that shows 17 explicit sex acts has no redeeming social value and "is one throat that deserves to be cut." Sign in the box office window tells when the picture was removed from the theater and the movie now playing there. (UPI Telephoto).

Dem Head Wants Abolishment Of Primary for Appeals Court

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The statewide primary election should be abolished for the chief judgeship of the Court of Appeals, says State Democratic Chairman Joseph Crangle.

His proposal, announced Thursday, raised speculation about an agreement between him and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to prevent a contest this fall.

Associate Judge Charles Breitparties have avoided a contest by cross-endorsing chief-judge candidates, selecting the senior associate judge to move up. Associate Judge Adrian P. Burke, a Democrat, is the senior man but does not want the chief judge's job because of ill health. Breit, a Republican, is next in line.

Last month, Rockefeller praised the qualifications of Supreme Court Justice Bernard S. Meyer of Long Island, one of the unsuccessful Democratic candidates for the Court of Appeals in the election last fall. The unusual action was seen as a signal that Meyer might get a signal that Meyer might get

Judge Bans 'Deep Throat'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A judge ruled Thursday that "Deep Throat," a movie that shows 17 explicit sex acts within the 62 minutes it runs, has no redeeming social value and "is one throat that deserves to be cut."

In banning the low-budget, high-profit sex film—tickets sell at $5 — Manhattan Criminal Court Judge Joel J. Tyler called it, "the feast of carrion and squalor." He also said it was a Sodom and Gomorrah gone wild before the fire and "a sheer negligee through which clearly shines the producer's and the defendant's true and only purpose—the presentation of unmistakably hard-core pornography."

Moments after Tyler's ruling, electric bulbs spelled out a sign on the marquee of Times Square's World Theater, one of two theaters in New York displaying the movie. "Judge cuts 'Throat' . . . World Mourns," the sign declared.

According to one of the Supreme Court's criteria, a movie is obscene if it contains nothing of redeeming social value. "This is one throat that deserves to be cut," Tyler said. "I readily perform the operation by finding the defendant guilty as charged."

Linda Lovelace, whose performance made her a superstar of the porno circuit, displayed a "sword-swallowing faculty for fellatio," in the movie, Tyler said.

"This decision is wholly out of keeping with the law and with the times," said Herbert Kassner, a defense attorney. "If it is followed . . . it would shut down all sexually explicit films."

It was perhaps the first hard-core pornography movie to become openly and widely popular. It cost $25,000 to produce and already has grossed more than $4 million through showings in 70 cities. Many New Yorkers considered it chic to see "Deep Throat." Tyler ordered the defendant, Mature Enterprises Inc., to turn over all copies of the movie to the police property clerk.

At the March 15 sentencing, he could impose a fine twice as high as the film's profits.

Schermerhorn Raps Pension Proposals

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Legislative leaders have disowned the politically hot Kinzel Commission report on public-employee pension reform and turned toward developing a substantially reworked version of the proposed new retirement system.

"I can't support it as it now stands," Sen. Richard Schermerhorn told newsmen Thursday while his Senate Committee on Civil Service and Pensions and the Assembly Committee on Governmental Employees, chaired by another Republican, Alvin Suchin, conducted a public hearing on the commission recommendations.

More than 50 speakers had asked to address the joint committees, including representatives of labor, business and government.

The state's public employee unions, united under coalition leader John DeLury, president of the New York City Sanitationmen's union, have assailed the commission recommendations on several fronts, but they have been most vocal in fighting the commission's proposal to take the entire issue of pension benefits out of the collective bargaining process.

Schermerhorn and Suchin said they found "some merit" in a solution forwarded by state Comptroller Arthur Levitt—an adviser to the commission and a Democrat—by which pension benefits would be negotiated by a "bargaining coalition," so that every state and local government worker would receive the same negotiated benefits.

The state Commission on Public Employee Pension and Retirement Systems, as it is officially known, has proposed the gradual scrapping of the dozens of retirement plans now covering more than one million public workers in New York State and replacing them with one uniform plan providing everyone, with the exception of police and firemen, with the same benefits.

The key to the commission plan would be the integration of Social Security payments.

Social Security could be considered the primary retirement benefit. For those still working, an increase in Social Security payments would mean a decrease in pension benefits. For those already retired, any Social Security increase would be added to their total benefits.

Under the proposed plan, which would apply only to new workers after July 1, 1973, the commission says an average 30-year worker could retire to annual benefits equaling 80 percent of his final working year's salary, or roughly 100 percent of take-home pay.

Those figures, however, include Social Security payments. Otto Kinzel, former Union Carbide Corp. counsel who heads the commission, told the committee members Thursday that his panel found that "under present plans, large numbers of public employees are able to receive more income in retirement than while working."

He has estimated that the commission plan would mean a $1-billion annual savings in pension costs for state and local governments within 10 years.

But DeLury countered that Kinzel was using the "big-lie technique."

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices opened lower today as Wall Street continued to worry about the international monetary crisis.

Brokers said investors were awaiting the results of a week-end finance officials before buying.

Ulster County Unemployment Is Down

KINGSTON — Unemployment in Ulster County is down from a high of 7.9 per cent last January to 6.7 per cent in January of this year, a spokesman for the State Unemployment Office said today.

There were 2,392 persons receiving unemployment benefits in February, compared to 2,752 a year ago.

Overall, the work force in Ulster County has increased by 200 persons since last January to a total of 53,400.

Barclay District...Application Forms Needed

By CARL GRAHAM

SAUGERTIES — The Town of Saugerties has not yet received application forms for state funds for the proposed Barclay Heights Sewer District, town engineer Alex Diachishin told the town board Thursday night.

Diachishin said that he could not proceed with plans for the district until he receives the forms and the specifications the town would have to meet to be eligible for about $150,000 in state aid.

The proposed district would tie Barclay Heights into the Saugerties Village sewerage system. The village has signed a letter of intent giving the town a go-ahead for the joint project, Diachishin said. He estimated total construction costs at more than $1 million.

Board members unanimously approved a one-year contract with the Sawyer Excavating Company that will bring the town 25 cents for each cubic yard of shale removed from the town landfill site on Route 212. Supervisor A. Michael Schovel said that the town landfill operator would govern removal of the shale and that sufficient material would be kept on the site to cover all garbage and trash.

Schovel also asked board members to consider setting up a fee schedule for commercial trash collectors. He said that other nearby towns and villages are charging such fees now and that if the Town of Saugerties didn't follow suit its landfill would be "flooded" with commercial haulers. He also suggested that the landfill be closed on holidays because people from other areas were using the facilities when their own landfills were closed.

Councilman Francis Hallion, the police commissioner, read a letter from Saugerties High School Principal Daniel Lee public hearing would be held The move is a necessary preliminary to formation of separate companies, and also dogs that would have to be handled before construction a permanent facility. The village of Saugerties is participating would be opened next week on and will pay half of all costs, a temporary dog pound at the Schovel said.

Schovel announced that a towns of Saugerties and Ulster, would be opened next week on and will pay half of all costs, a temporary dog pound at the Schovel said.

Opposition Continuing

ACCORD — Robert Keagel was appointed to fill a vacancy on the assessment board of review. Continuing opposition to a proposed new landfill site on Airport Road was in evidence at the Rochester Town Board meeting Thursday night, as a petition containing 130 names of persons against the proposal was presented to the board.

Supervisor Franklin Kelder continued to stress that other sites will be considered if they can be found.

The board gave the go-ahead to a recreation park project near the town building following the presentation of $3,741.50 cost estimate by the recreation commission.

The annual fuel oil contract was awarded to Van Demark Oil Co. which submitted a bid of 18.4 cents per gallon. There were two other bidders.

STONE RIDGE

With Ulster County Community College basketball coach Mike Perry planning a one-year leave of absence next season, opposition mentors are running out of time in their quest to beat the boss of the Senators. One of those who really wanted another shot at Perry and Ulster was Rockland's Howie Pierson. He'll get his chance tonight at 9 p.m. in the Senate Gym when his Rockets face Ulster in the semi-finals of the Region XV tournament.

Ulster, looking for its second consecutive championship, shook off pesky Greater Hartford, 68-45, in Thursday night's first round affair, following Rockland's easy 85-63 whipping of Staten Island.

Westchester and Farmingdale will square off in the 7 p.m. semi, both having beaten their opening round foes. The Vikings downed Manhattan, 71-60, and the Aggies won an 82-77 overtime thriller against Sullivan.

But back to Rockland-Ulster and Pierson vs. Perry.

"You know, Howie and I started coaching at the same time, eight years ago," Perry explained. "He won the first game, and I've won the last 17. With this being my last year, he wanted another game with us."

And what about that game? "It's going to be interesting," said the Ulster coach. "They are a very explosive, dynamic team, capable of beating everybody, including us. They've got four real good ballplayers."

Four? Rockland was supposed to be Wade Pittman and Larry Frazier, period, wasn't it?

"I'll tell you, that Jackson (Charlie) is a helluva guard, and Oswald (Bob) does a good job for them," Perry explained.

Ulster, though, has already taken care of the Rockets twice this season, and the Senators gave no indication Thursday night against Hartford that they won't do it again.

The Connecticut Colts tried to slow things up a bit on Ulster, not really stalling, but looking for the extra good shot. It was a tactic that kept them in the ballgame for 10 minutes of the first half.

Ulster had just too much poise to be suckered into foolish fouls. The Senators played it cool, fully aware that they possessed most of the talent on the floor, and let things fall into place.

They fell in when Coleman Link popped in a shot from the corner to make it 10-8 Hartford. Len Clemons drove the base line to tie it; Henry Nixon sank a jumper; and Jackie Knowles threw in a two-pointer. Suddenly Ulster was up 14-10, never to be behind again.

UCCC took a 28-19 lead in the lockerroom, then really poured it on in the second half when Hartford was forced to abandon its slowdown in order to get back in the game. Predictably, Ulster pulled away. Link led a charge that produced 20 points to Hartford's seven and the issue was settled.

The Senators only took 68 shots in the game, but they made 36 of them. Link (14 points), Steve Richardson (14), and Clemons (9) were particularly hot. Ulster also controlled the boards.

Hartford got virtually nothing from its big man Dan Jones (five points, four rebounds), and connected on only 36 per cent of its shots.

Rockland, meanwhile, took advantage of a cold shooting Staten Island team to win its game easier than many had figured.

Pittman, the former Newburgh Free Academy cager, was on target on 12 of his 24 shots for 29 points. He also led both sides in rebounding with a sizeable 18, a facet of his game often unnoticed under his barrage of field goal tries.

Frazier, Wade's partner at NFA, was less impressive, scoring only 13 points, but he was tough underneath as well with 14 rebounds.

Charlie Jackson had 19 points and Bob Oswald pulled down 16 rebounds to back up Perry's claims about Rockland's strength.

Staten Island, which trailed 12-11 midway through the first half, blew several opportunities to go in front before folding. It was led by Keith Hudson's 14 points.

The best game of the day proved to be Farmingdale's nailbiter over Sullivan.

The Generals twice in the second half appeared to be on the way to defeat when they behind 47-39, and then 59-49. But with the Region's top scorer, Mike Hay, leading the attack, Sullivan chipped away at the deficit and tied the score at 69 with 32 seconds left in regulation time.

Farmingdale had a chance for the last shot, but John Dickson of Sullivan stole it and threw up what looked to be the winning hoop. However Henry Kinsey of the Aggies blocked it (Sullivan charging goal tending). Then Hay forced one end sending the game into overtime.

Kinsey and Paul Krabbler took charge for Farmingdale in the extra session, and Ray Butler iced the win with three late points.

Kinsey hit 25 points and grabbed 18 rebounds for the Aggies. Teammate Mark Barnes, with a strong second half, tallied 19 points and had 16 caroms.

Hay recorded 34 points for Sullivan to fall just two short of the tournament record.

Westchester and Manhattan played a rather sloppy opener, the two teams combining for 52 turnovers. The Vikings scored 10 straight points during one stretch of the first half to take a 20-13 lead which they never relinquished.

Mike Young's 17 was high for Westchester. Bosco Pearson scored 16 for Manhattan.

TOURNAMENT TALK — The first game started 28 minutes late. Referee Don Beale of West Point thought the tournament was scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. instead of at 1.

Afternoon attendance fell short of filling the permanent bleachers. Evening crowd overflowed onto the stage area where folding chairs were placed. Portable bleachers for the stage were sent to Albany by mistake. They're due in time for tonight's doubleheader.

Many four-year colleges were represented to look over the talent. Former Freeman sportswriter Jim Massa is official scorer for the tournament and is providing the press with in depth post-game statistics.

Ed Palladino is timer for the tourney. Perry called his last time out specifically to allow PA man Bill DuBois to announce the news of Ulster wrestler Tom Coddington's two wins in the Nationals at Worthington, Minn.

Nixon: 1005 Points

Henry Nixon Thursday night became the third player in Ulster County Community College basketball history to go over the 1,000-point mark for a two-year career.

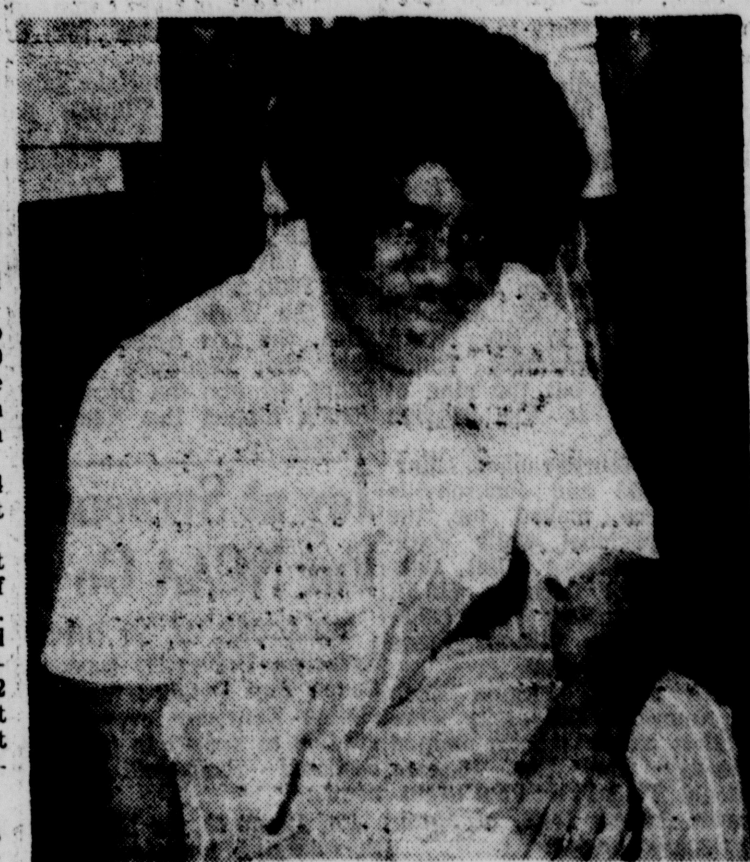

Nixon only needed 10 points in the 68-45 triumph over Greater Hartford, but that was enough to lift his total to 1,005.

Nixon joins Jerry Moss and Glenn Berry in the UCCC 1,000-Point Club. Moss racked up 1,105 points in the 1968-69-70 seasons with a career average of 20.1. Berry totaled 1,032 in the 1969-70-71 seasons with a 21.3 career average.

Jumpin' Joe Uhl scored 904 points in his two seasons at Ulster in 1966-67-68.

Nixon's 10 points against Greater Hartford was one of his lowest totals of the season. Coming into the game, he had racked up 97 points in the previous four games, with 32 against Sullivan, 18 against Westchester, 23 against Post and 24 in the Rockland contest.

This Was One Night Bucks Didn't Choke

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jerry Lucas' long-range bombs backfired Thursday night, helping the Milwaukee Bucks to shoot full of holes the theory that they choke at the sight of New York Knicks uniforms.

With Lucas shooting unusually cold from outside, the Bucks' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was able to concentrate on offense. He responded with 39 points as Milwaukee opened a 21-point lead and held off a New York rally for a 114-100 victory.

It was only the Bucks' eighth victory in 31 games with New York over their five-year history, but it squared the season series at 2-2 and, more important, increased their Midwest Division lead over Chicago to 3 games. The Knicks slipped 3½ games behind first place Boston in the Atlantic Division.

Invite ND To NIT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marshall and Louisville more than likely earned a spot in the National Invitation Tournament Thursday night, but neither school is expected to receive an official bid to the 36th annual post-season classic before Monday.

The NIT committee began filling its 16-team field Thursday afternoon by selecting Notre Dame, Virginia Tech and American University to play in the Madison Square Garden tournament, March 17-25.

No further bids were expected before noon Monday. Marshall, an independent, will be hard to overlook. The Thundering Herd finished their regular season Thursday night by whipping Stamford 77-65 to climax a nifty 20-6 campaign. Included among the Herd's victories this season are triumphs over Florida State, Oral Roberts and NCAA-bound Miami (Ohio).

Louisville clinched at least a tie for second place in the Missouri Valley Conference by downing Tulsa 49-62. The Cardinals are 21-6 overall and have been to the NIT on several occasions.

In selecting Notre Dame, the NIT committee went for a box office attraction and overlooked the Irish's mediocre 14-11 record. The NIT was hoping to land local favorite St. John's but when the Redmen were selected to participate in the NCAA tournament the NIT was left without a drawing card.

Notre Dame, however, has always been an attraction in the metropolitan area because of its large number of "subway alumni" who reside in the area. The Irish drew over 10,000 fans in each of two local appearances this season.

The Irish, who start four sophomores and a junior, have played one of the nation's toughest schedules. They have lost to UCLA (twice), Indiana and Kentucky while beating Marquette and St. John's, two teams headed for the NCAA.

"The bomb had a bad fuse tonight—it fizzled for the first time in a long time," said Lucas, generally considered one of the finest outside shooters in the NBA.

Abdul-Jabbar, who sank 16 of 27 shots and grabbed 14 rebounds to help Milwaukee control the boards by a 53-45 margin, admitted Lucas' ineffectiveness was a big help.

"When he's really hitting, he's pretty tough for me," Abdul-Jabbar said. "This was a big win. If we're going to get moving, it's got to be soon."

In the only two American waukee and draw the 7-foot-2 Basketball Association games, Abdul-Jabbar away from the crippled Utah turned back back basket. But this time he sank 15 of 13 shots and only baseline jumper at the buzzer one of his field goals came from as far away as 15 feet.

Russia's Tikhonov Favored in World Biathlon

By DENIS D. GRAY
LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — "When I touch him I can feel gold," the masseur said while kneading the body of the Soviet Union's Alexander Tikhonov after a grueling practice session on the Mt. Van Hoevenberg cross-country course here. Tikhonov — an international star in his specialty — is the favorite to capture the senior event of the 1973 World Biathlon Championships Friday. But even before Tikhonov and his teammates got into the action, the Soviets, along with the Finns, were also favorites to take the junior — the 21-and-under event — of the championships today. The junior relay will be held Saturday, followed

Sunday by the senior relays. Leading the Soviet junior contingent are Alex Bogdanov and Valeri Hanzin — both 21 — while Finland's Esko Saira, 1973 Scandinavian biathlon champion, was predicted to offer strong opposition. But a spokesman for the Norwegian team said that the junior event, composed of athletes as yet untried in international competition, could not be as easily presaged as the senior title. Reviewing the results of the training here and the rosters of past biathlon triumphs and defeats, Norway's Majnar Solberg, two-time Olympic gold medalist and now coach of his country's team, said Wednesday that the strongest showing among the 13 countries competing here would come from the Soviets, the Finns, East Germans and Norwegians. That prediction comes as no surprise. Reputedly born in a small Swedish community, the biathlon event has been dominated by the Scandinavians and the Soviets since its advent on the schedules of world competitions. The Swedes took the first gold medal awarded in the sport in the 1960 Olympics at Squaw Valley, and their Norwegian neighbors, in the person of Solberg, captured the gold in 1968 and 1972. The Russians won the top honor in 1964.

Tikhonov, a lieutenant in the Soviet militia from the Siberian town of Novosibirsk, placed only fourth in the 1972 Sapporo Olympics, but his performance there was the exception rather than the rule. Described as both a "skier and a shooter" by a fellow competitor, the 25-year-old Tikhonov has, among other honors, won the 1969 and 1970 world championships, placed second in the 1971 world biathlon and finished second to Solberg in Grenoble in 1968.

His teammate, Rinnat Safin, has also starred in world class competition in recent years as have Eiter Speer of East Germany, Lars-Goran Arvesson of Sweden and Daniel Claudon of France — all here to compete for the 1973 world title.

The American senior squad, chosen on the basis of performance in the national championships held here last weekend, includes Dennis Donahue of Worcester, Vt., John Morton of Keene, N.H., Jay Bowermann of Bend, Ore., Ken Allgood of Jackson Hole, Wyo., and Art Stegen of New Paltz.

Representing the U.S. in the juniors are Martin Hagen and Rusty Scott, both of Jackson Hole, Robert Beaman of Anchorage, Alaska, and Marvin McCabe of Parker, Ariz.

The U.S. team is not expected to offer the stiffest competition to the Scandinavians, East Germans and Russians. Peter Hale of Minnesota, affiliated with the U.S. squad, said Wednesday that finances are a constant battle in fielding strong U.S. biathlon teams.

Competitors are scored not only for elapsed time over the course, but also for marksmanship with one or two minutes, depending on the margin of error, added to the "running time" for each miss.

In the relay event, each of four team members skies a 7.5-kilometer (4 1/2 miles) course, stopping twice to shoot a group of five unbroken targets. For each unbroken target the racer must run a penalty loop of 200 meters adjacent to the shooting range.

Rate Simonetti's 278 Tops in UCJBA Pins

KINGSTON — Mike Simonetti, a 17-year-old bowler in the Ferraro Juniors League, has rolled an all-time high single of 278 in the Ulster County Junior Bowling Association. A 157 average bowler, he rolled 121 pins over his norm in the 278. He started with a four-timer, ran into a 10-pin tap, then fired four more strikes. The 278 eclipsed his former high rolled by George Bedard in the Senior Boys class in the 1968-69 season.

Karen Pondering

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia (UPI) — Karen Magnussen said today she was not certain whether she will defend the women's world figure skating title she brought back to Canada for the first time since Petra Burka won it in 1965.

"I have not thought about it yet," she said. "I will be pretty busy with exhibitions in Canada and Japan until May and only after that will I have time to think it over."

The 20-year-old student of psychology from Vancouver won the world title Thursday night with all nine judges awarding her the first place.

Her main rival, Janet Lynn of Rockford, Ill., beaten already after two falls in the compulsory free skating, came in second and Christine Errath, the European champion from East Germany, third.

"I did not think about cutting my program to avoid risks," Miss Magnussen said. "I just wanted to skate the best I could."

Linda Brauckmann, her coach, said Karen left out only one tricky jump, a double loop, "but only because she got too near to the edge of the rink."

Miss Lynn was more direct about her future skating plans. "I am going to skate as long as I love it," she said.

There was some indication, however, that the 19-year-old five times U.S. champion was rather depressed by her unexpected poor showing in the compulsory free skating. She made up for it by a splendid final free skating routine that earned her two top marks of six—the only ones in the women's competition—but could not escape defeat.

"I know that I still love skating," she said. "But it is not always fun. Skating has taught me about life and it taught me also about defeat. It did hurt inside but I found I had a life to live."

The World Figure Skating Championships continue today with the final free program of the dance pairs and will wind up Saturday with the men's competition. Defending champion Ondrej Nepela of Czechoslovakia is favored to skate to his straight third world title in his hometown.

Savago Terms Improper Handling Charges 'Ridiculous'

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON—Chairman of the Ulster County Legislature Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8) today dismissed as "ridiculous" charges of improper handling of tax money leveled at him Thursday by Democratic State Committeeman Maurice Hinchey Jr.

Quoting from the recent report of the audit of the county made by the New York State Department of Audit and Control, Savago said the auditors found that "moneys and revenues received by or accrued to the county were verified by examination of the records of county officers and employees... and that expenditures were kept within the limits of appropriations as required by county law."

Commenting on Hinchey's contention that Savago "must bear the responsibility for the misfeasance and malfeasance in the handling of tax money..." Savago claimed that Hinchey took statements in the audit report "out of context and failed to disclose any of the complimentary items included by the state in its report."

Regarding the Saugerties Democrat's charges that $2.4 million in cash surpluses was not made available to reduce the tax levy, Savago said he preferred to have $2.4 million in surplus than in a deficit such as numerous other counties in the state reportedly have. Answering another of Hinchey's criticisms with regard to keeping large amounts of cash in non-interest bearing accounts, Savago said the money was needed to pay everyday to put certain items out for bid state does not forward the ballot the county should be directed calling a press conference to, Savago said it is his "firm

Gilman Has Stewart Briefing

NEWBURGH—After what Congressman Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.), termed "a comprehensive briefing" by officials of the Federal Aviation Administration, he feels that FAA "seems inclined to do what it can to reconcile environmental concerns with the economic development of Stewart Airport and the surrounding area."

Gilman had urged that William J. Ronan, head of the Mass Transportation Authority, "disclose the release and distribution date of the proposed master plan for the airport and that he expedite the environmental impact report and grant residents, whose homes have been acquired for the airport, a reasonable amount of time to move and give the people in the region affected by the airport a voice in planning the project."

Gilman said that during the meeting it was indicated that although the administration is not in the business of building airports, it does have a vital interest in the orderly growth of Stewart Airport.

John Shaffer, administrator of FAA emphasized his concern that Stewart should be well planned and that full consideration should be given to the environment surrounding the proposed facility. He underlined this by indicating that the secretary of transportation has wide discretion in the matter including the power to hold public hearings on the project. Shaffer also advised Gilman that his fears of aviation noise from Stewart are unfounded since the airport would not become fully functional for 10 years. Advances in aircraft techniques will solve this problem, he said.

Gilman was also informed by FAA that the agency was seeking to guarantee the integrity of the environment indicating that an exhausted environmental impact statement would be forthcoming by the end of March.

Fish Sponsors Adoption Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr. (R-25) today sponsored legislation to create a nation-wide adoption information system, designed to assist in the location and placement of children awaiting adoption.

One of the most difficult problems for many qualified people wishing to adopt a child is locating a child," Congressman Fish said. "This is often due to the inadequacy of information available on babies which may be eligible for adoption in a wider area."

Under the bill introduced by Fish, a computerized information service within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would be established, which could provide the needed information on children available for adoption anywhere in the country.

Local Talent to Appear Monday With the Young Americans

Some of the youngest singing talents of the Kingston area will be initiated to the excitement of the concert stage when they become a integral part of The Young Americans when that group presents the final program of the 1972-73 series for the membership of the Kingston Community Concert Association on Monday evening, March 5 at the Community Theater. The concert begins at 8:00 p.m. Appearing with the internationally famed group will be eight students from the primary grades of the Port Ewen School. Among those participating will be Richard Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bradley, Kingston; Brian Cross, son of Mr. and

Mrs. Arthur Cross, New Salem; Myron Peoples, son of Mr. and Mrs. Haywood Peoples, Sleightsburg; Kristin Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Potter, Port Ewen; Cathy Provenzano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Provenzano, Port Ewen; Christa Schick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schick, Port Ewen; Paul

Secor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Secor, Ulster Park; and Cathy Spalt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Spalt, Port Ewen. Jobi Friedman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stuart Friedman of Port Ewen, originally scheduled to be in the group is ill and is unable to participate. Formed in the spring of 1962, the Young Americans were instantly catapulted into stardom. They have been the subject of an Academy Award winning film and have enchanted audiences on every major TV show and throughout the world on their many foreign tours. The Academy Award film was produced by Columbia Pictures, and was a full length documentary about the unique singing group. Talent abounds, for in addition to the fascinating and rhythmic arrangements of the choral group, there are instrumental ensembles as well as choreography to create a musical program to delight all musical tastes. The television shows on which they have appeared as guests include the Danny Thomas Show, the Red Skelton Show, the Tennessee Ernie Ford Show, the Ed Sullivan Show, the Hollywood Palace, as well as the Academy Awards presentations. Their most recent appearance was on the Julie Andrews Show. Just prior to coming to Kingston on Monday, this stellar attraction will be seen in a performance in Madison Square Garden in New York City.

Wedding Vows Are Exchanged

Constance Elizabeth Finnerty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Finnerty of Bloomington, became the bride of Ralph Frederick Flood, Modena, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Flood of Slate Hill, N.Y., on Saturday, Feb. 10.

The Rev. Walter Kearns officiated at the double ring ceremony at St. Peter's Church in Rosendale. Mrs. Richard Taylor provided wedding selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected a white velvet gown in the empire A-line styling. The gown featured a bib effect on the bodice, accented with Venice lace. Her two tiered mantilla was trimmed with matching lace and attached to a pillbox headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Jacqueline Knapp of Lake Katrine was matron of honor in a gown styled with a white chiffon bodice over a blue velvet skirt. A velvet, pearl-veiled headpiece held her veil and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white pompons.

Attendants were Mrs. Wendy Ennist of Bloomington; Mrs. Carol Flood, Slate Hill, sister-in-law of the bridegroom; and Miss Jeanne Schoonmaker. Their gowns were similar in styling to the honor attendant's with skirts of green, red and gold, respectively. They carried bouquets of red roses and white pompons.

Stephen Flood of Slate Hill was best man for his brother. Ushers were Fred Perry, cousin of the bride, East Kingston; Barry and Wayne Flood, brothers of the bridegroom.

A reception was given at the Capri '400' Restaurant in Port Ewen.

The bride, a 1971 graduate of State University College at New Paltz and a 1972 graduate of Russell Sage College, Albany, is a teacher at the Association of Retarded Children in Kingston. Her husband, a 1971 alumnus of SUNY at New Paltz, is a teacher at Wallkill Central Schools.

After a wedding trip to Tucson, Ariz., Mr. and Mrs. Flood will reside in Modena.

Opera Length Pearls

High standing collars on wedding gowns call for matinee or opera length pearls. A cameo or simple brooch hung on the strand gives a more striking effect.

Pearls in Hair

The pearl necklace for the wedding day can be worn other places besides the throat. The hairdresser can work the pearls into the coiffure. This is an attractive elective for the bride with long hair.

A Hearty, Time-Saving Menu for Today's Busy Homemaker

Canned Bartlett pears add a golden sparkle to a hearty pork chop dinner. The entire meal bakes in one dish, making this a time-saving menu for today's busy homemaker.

The pork chops are lightly browned and placed on top of a layer of sliced canned sweet potatoes which line a shallow baking dish. The flavorful syrup from the canned pears is combined with brown sugar, butter and spices to make a tasty glaze. During the last half of the baking period the glistening pear halves are tucked in around the pork chops and drizzled with more of the spicy glaze.

Canned pears from sunny orchards of the Pacific Coast are often a good beginning for convenient and easy meals throughout the day. Use them just as they come from the can as a refreshing first course for breakfast or brunch. Or feature canned pears in a nourishing luncheon salad with poultry, seafood or cheese. For the coffee break or an after-school or late evening snack, bake pears into cakes, cookies or breads. Their juicy texture adds a moist quality that insures long-lasting freshness.

Canned pears are available all year around to add a special sparkle to your meals. They are especially appealing during the cold-weather months when fresh fruit is not so readily available. Canned pears are carefully processed to retain their natural flavor and juiciness, making them more similar to the fresh fruit than any other variety of canned fruit.

Baked Pears, Pork and Sweets

One (16 oz.) can Bartlett pear halves

One (17 oz.) can sweet potatoes

Four loin pork chops

Salt and pepper

One-half cup brown sugar

Two tablespoons butter

One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon

One-eighth teaspoon cloves

Drain pears, reserving syrup. Cut sweet potatoes crosswise into thick slices and place in bottom of shallow baking dish. Trim excess fat from pork chops. Heat fat in skillet until one tablespoon is melted. Remove trimmings. Add pork chops and brown lightly on both sides. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place on top of sweet potatoes in center of baking dish. In small saucepan combine reserved pear syrup, brown sugar, butter and spices. Heat until sugar dissolves. Spoon half of syrup over pork chops and sweet potatoes. Bake at 350 degrees for one-half hour. Remove from oven and place pear halves around pork chops in baking dish. Spoon remaining syrup over pears and pork chops. Return to oven and bake another one-half hour or until pork chops are tender. Makes four servings.

Single Woman Hurt: Married Lover Untrue

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1973 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My heart is breaking, and altho I think I know the answer, maybe if I saw it in print I could accept it more easily.

I am an unmarried woman who has been absolutely faithful to a married man ever since we fell in love four years ago. His excuse for not leaving his wife and marrying me was his children. I accepted this. I know that hundreds of husbands and wives live under the same roof after they stop loving each other just for the sake of their children, but they usually have their own interests, and go their own way.

Abby, I never asked him to leave his home, his wife, or his children, but I did expect him to be just as true to me as I was to him.

Well, I was true to him, but he was sleeping with both of us!

He says he loves me, but I am beginning to wonder. I can understand his keeping his marriage intact for the children's sake, but must he SLEEP with his wife for the children's sake? Or is it just because he wants to?

HURT

DEAR HURT: I hate to hurt you further, but unless a man "wants to," he's a pretty ineffective bed partner.

DEAR ABBY: With some

Dear Abby

people marriage doesn't work. In our case, the divorce didn't work. After five years of marriage and two children, my husband and I got a divorce. The first three months we stayed apart, but the last three months we have been living together just like we did when we were married. We still love each other, and we want to be man and wife again. I know you can get a marriage annulled. Can you get a divorce annulled?

ME AND HIM

DEAR ME: Ask the lawyer who handled your divorce. I've never heard of "annulling" a divorce. You may have to wait until your divorce is final before you're free to marry again.

DEAR ABBY: When a wife complained because her husband was turned on by the sight of beautiful women in pictures, movies, in person, etc., you said those feelings were natural for a man and he should not be made to feel guilty.

Well, it's natural for a woman to feel jealous when she sees her husband enjoying the beauty of other women, especially when the wife herself is not so generously endowed. So she shouldn't feel guilty about her feelings either.

If a man is smart he will forego the pleasure of looking at other women when he's with his wife. It will pay off, believe me. Just last night my husband took me out for dinner, and at a nearby table was a beautiful girl, provocatively dressed. Her tight-fitting, low-cut gown showed off her best features, and as if that wasn't enough she had a slit in her skirt which revealed a lovely leg right up to her thigh! Every other husband in the place couldn't take his eyes off this girl. My husband gave her one glance, and pretended she wasn't even there for the rest of the evening. When we got home, believe me, I gave him a night to remember! I'll bet all the other husbands got was the cold shoulder.

LUCKY

DEAR LUCKY: How do you know?

CONFIDENTIAL TO B. J. IN SIOUX CITY: She's no bargain. If she'll cheat WITH you, she'll cheat ON you.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Hospital Notes Accreditation

Northern Dutchess Hospital has received notification of accreditation for a period of two years from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH), it was announced by Michael C. Mazzarella, administrator.
The Joint Commission is the official agency that establishes standards of operation for hospitals and health care facilities throughout the country, and is composed of the American College of Surgeons, the American College of Physicians, the American Hospital Association, and the American Medical Association.
To insure that the high quality of hospital care is met by member hospitals, field representatives of the JCAH visit each hospital and conduct their own surveys.
Unique in the history of medicine, the JCAH, originally established by the American College of Surgeons in 1918, became in 1951 a joint organization composed of many groups whose sole purpose was the encouragement of uniformly high standards of institutional medical care.
With the advent of Medicare, the impact of accreditation by JCAH became even more pronounced in setting standards of performance, many of which are specifically referred to in the Medicare law.
A tradition of standards was undertaken in 1966 with more than 250 experts as advisors representing all concerned professions.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

UNANSWERED: (Q.) About seven months ago I met a guy at a local ice cream shop. We started going out. My prom came up and we went. We had a good time at the prom and on an outing next day. Sometimes on dates he would get aggressive, but I never gave in to him.

Two weeks after the prom he enlisted in the Army. After he left, a friend told me his story. When he was 17 he got a girl pregnant and married her. She left him but did not get a divorce. So the whole time he was dating me he was married and he never told me.

I made me angry to remember that he had not learned his lesson and had tried to do the same thing to me that he did to the girl he got pregnant.

I wrote him and told him in a mature way that I had heard the whole truth and wished he had told it to me himself.

That was months ago and I have heard nothing from him. But I can't forget him no matter how hard I try. I go out with other guys, but the memories of him go with me. Do you have any suggestions?—Can't Forget in New Jersey.

(A.) Count yourself fortunate that your former friend did not answer and that the episode is ended and that you got out with very minor wounds in contrast to the pain you could have suffered.

Although it may not seem so to you now, time is working for you. It has already healed your anger. Soon your remorse will go, and you will be able to get really interested in another boy or boys.

When you do get to liking someone else, find out enough about him to be sure you won't relive the same sad story.

FOR GRANTED: (Q.) When a guy starts taking you for granted, is there any way to make him care and appreciate you a little more?—Taken in Indiana.

(A.) Ration the time you have for him. Tell him no now and then. Be with your girl friends more. Schedule some activities (such as skiing, skating, movies) with them or someone else, that is, besides him.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions or comments to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001.)

Television of the Future

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City's Office of Telecommunications, which began operating last July, is currently the only one of its kind in the nation, according to Herbert S. Dordick, head of the office. But the future is another matter. Dordick estimates that at least 25 other major U.S. cities will have a similar office or board within the next 10 years. "The cities are getting involved because of the wide spread introduction of cable television and franchise applications," he said. Dordick's office, run on a $200,000 budget, is under the Bureau of Franchises, which New York gave 20-year franchises in 1970 to two CATV operators — Sterling Manhattan Cable Television, Inc. and the TelePrompster Corp. Those franchises cover only the borough of Manhattan, one of five New York City boroughs. Manhattan has 637,940 TV-equipped homes, according to the A. C. Nielsen Co., a rating service. But the two cable companies have made an impressive dent in that one borough since 1970. They've installed 110,000 units there, most of them in homes, according to Dordick. Doesn't that kind of cable concentration pose the threat of a takeover by the city? "We don't have any involvement with content," Dordick said. "We try to avoid that very carefully. The only content we're involved with is that on our own city channels." But what if a mayor of a city uses his telecommunications office as a means of keeping his mug and thoughts constantly before the public on the city cable TV channel? "It's not such a big danger," Dordick said. "There are two reasons. One is that if he has anything to say, he can get far wider coverage through the regular media outlets. And looking 20 years in the future, you can estimate there'll be 40 to 50 channels in a guy's home. Only about one of those channels will be operated by the city."

You don't really think of a five-card suit headed by ace-king-queen as a shaky trump-holding. South certainly didn't think so and as a result South managed to get set at four spades.

He did it quickly. He ruffed the second club and promptly played out his ace, king and queen of trumps. East showed out and the best South could do was start on diamonds.

West ruffed the third diamond for the second defensive trick and South still had to lose two hearts.

South had two ways to bring home the contract plus an overtrick. The first was to just discard a heart on the second club.

The other was to ruff the second club and continue with a submarine play in trumps. In other words, just underlead his ace-king-queen. He could not be forced again and would have been able to pull trumps safely. South's bidding was just about as bad as his play but really good bidding might have been punished.

Monetary Crisis Sweeps World

PARIS (UPI) — A new monetary crisis swept the world Thursday, just two weeks after devaluation of the dollar, with individuals and corporations selling more billions of unwanted dollars and again endangering the fragile money structure.

Only the Paris market among the major world exchanges opened today and it was closed after the Bank of France purchased between 300 and 350 million dollars.

Elsewhere, markets remained closed while world governments considered action that would avoid the second such monetary crisis this year.

In Washington, an American official said he saw no reason for another dollar devaluation. "We'll live through it," said Undersecretary of the Treasury Paul A. Volcker when asked if the United States would respond to the latest monetary crisis with another devaluation. Financial experts said the latest crisis was fueled by persistent distrust of all paper value of such major currencies as the dollar, mark, yen, pound and franc. This distrust also led last week to feverish gold buying that sent the metal's price to a record $95 an ounce at one point.

The West German state bank alone bought an unprecedented $2.7 billion Friday in unwanted dollars. Eight other state banks in Europe also intervened to keep the dollar and from losing too much in value and imperiling the value of their own currencies.

After the last crisis, President Nixon devalued the dollar by 10 per cent and other governments revalued, devalued or allowed their currencies to float free of fixed prices in financial dealings.

European financial spokesmen said leaders of the nine European Common Market members were conferring with each other and were in contact with the United States. They did not elaborate on the contacts with Washington.

In Tokyo, the government said it would close the money market until Monday even through the monetary fever that swept Europe was muted in Tokyo. A statement said the government acted partly to forestall heavy dollar selling while other world markets are closed.

School District Finances ...In 'Double Jeopardy'

ZENA — The financial structure of the Kingston Consolidated School District may be severely strained next year because of two disparate events that jeopardize some $500,000 in anticipated funds.

The Board of Education is faced with a possible $200,000 assessment rebate and the loss of at least some of the $300,000 it expected to receive in federal funds under the Title I program.

Last week, State Supreme Court Justice George L. Cobb ordered the City of Kingston and the Board of Education to return some $90,000 in taxes paid by the Strelene Realty Corp., owners of Hudson Cement, for overassessment during the five year period between 1967 and 1971.

The school board paid its share of that amount — $46,298.18 — at its meeting Thursday at the Zena Elementary School. Still, the school board is faced with an even heavier rebate.

Currently in litigation — but not ruled on by Justice Cobb — is Hudson Cement's assessment for 1972. It was raised from $1.19 million in 1971 to $4 million last year. Strelene Realty has notified the city that it intends to fight that assessment increase.

If the court's ruling goes against the city, the school board will have to return an estimated $200,000 in excess taxes. Or, in the words of Mrs. Evelyn Corsones, chairman of the board's Business Details Management Committee, "We'll be in quite a bind for money."

The school board also has a more than casual interest in the fate of programs once administered by the nearly defunct Office of Economic Opportunity. OEO administered the Title I program, which awarded grants to the school district this year totaling more than $300,000. A major part of that money was used to administer the district's remedial reading program.

According to Louis A. Salzmann, superintendent of schools, next year's Title I grants have initially been reduced to 80 per cent of the current level. That spells the loss of some $60,000 in anticipated funds. And there's been no indication what other cuts will be made in the program.

Salzmann noted that all of the Title I guidelines have been tightened. "We don't know what will happen to the Title I funds now."

An effect will also be felt on some staff positions, said Salzmann. He noted that two staff members have already been notified that their positions are "in jeopardy" because of the demise of OEO.
